Proceed without me. I was in Silverton with a large sampling crew when the mine blew. I'm gonna be a little busy for a while.

I have sent this on to Dan Wall, who will be reviewing this concurrently with me. We will try to have our comments back by end of next week.

Roger: Attached are proposals put together by David Schmetterling and Trevor Selch for the Belt Creek sites, the ACM site and Stone Container. Let me know if you need more information.

Thanks,

Don

Don,

Suggest that Mike Burke and you have a call with Danette Quick (our grants specialist) and myself next week to go over allowable pre-award costs and how far back you may be eligible to claim them before you receive an award for funding. Suggest next Weds because I'm in the field on Monday and pretty booked on Tuesday, wide open on Wednesday and start vacation on Thursday. Sorry for the limited availability next week.

Roger: When we met you suggested that a cooperative agreement could not be put in place until November probably, but that you would be willing to pay for activities occurring in October, provided that MFWP could cover those costs initially. Our financial guy (Mike Burke) just confirmed that this is possible on our end to make such an arrangement. I just met with Trevor Selch and David Schmetterling and they indicated that there may be the need to do sampling at the ACM site in late August and September. So, this is a heads up that this sampling need exists and is a question to you if these activities could also be covered under the new agreement.

Thanks,

Don

I am amenable to a cooperative agreement. Currently in Seattle this week and am having problems accessing email remotely so keeping this short.

Hi Roger. After our meeting last week, we called Jenny Chambers and let her know that we had been talking to you about a separate monitoring agreement, without DEQ. I know it caught her cold, but she seemed amenable to it and appreciated the call. Are we still on track to develop this agreement, following your own discussions with DEQ?
